

EXTERIOR FINISHES: BUSH-CHISELLED

Our Bush-Chiselled texture is a machine-finish applied to sawn stone, meaning that each piece has a flat surface with a subtle linear coarse texture. This texture provides a smart, matt appearance which also improves slip-resistance. It also makes some of the geological character of the stone, such as little fossilised shells, less obvious.

Purbeck stone is a limestone, which naturally weathers. Depending on its application and exposure, its surface appearance will change over time.
