

EXTERIOR FINISHES: NATURAL FACE ROACH

Our Natural Face (or 'Riven') finish is simply the natural surface of a quarried block, or produced by splitting a block rather than sawing. Natural Face therefore reveals each stone's distinctive natural textures including little fossilised shells, veins, and varied colouration.

Natural Face has a rugged undulating surface, and its rustic appearance makes a good match with Purbeck dry stone walling, rockery, and stone roof tiles. Purbeck stone is a limestone, which naturally weathers. Depending on its application and exposure, its surface appearance will change over time.
